BLOOD DONORS CLINIC OBTAINS 117 UNITS

To all those who participated in the Red Cross Blood Donors Clinic Monday, Nov. 20, many thanks. In addition to the eight Red Cross staff members, eight volunteers were involved. Of the 163 blood donors, 117 units were obtained. Appreciation is expressed to Gould Academy, S. A. D. #44 and the local businesses and organizations which supported the effort.

In addition to the 117 pints obtained Monday, Nov. 20, the Bethel area last summer contributed 60 pints through the efforts of the Shriners and 29 pints from the Bloodmobile held at the Ekco Wood Products Co. Also several area citizens donate on a regular basis with those having rare blood types held in reserve for emergencies. One pint of blood is broken down into four components which means that this area has contributed to the saving of over 320 lives (not bad).

TEACHERS TELL ROTARY: SPECIAL ED. NEEDS FOLLOW-UP ASSISTANCE

Kate Swain and Marjorie Demarest, two M.S.A.D. #44 teachers responsible for special, Federally sponsored programs in the field of learning disabilities, were the guest speakers at the Bethel Rotary Club's regular meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 28. They explained their roles in a relatively new educational program designed to give special assistance to those students who for various reasons have trouble keeping up with their classmates. According to Kate Swain, reasons for students coming to her range from mental retardation to learning disabilities and emotional problems. Marjorie Demarest works with students who are behind their classmates in reading and math in the middle school grades. Both teachers, however, shared a common opinion as to the sources of problems experienced by their particular group of students.

The images of importance to students being aided by Bethel and Marjorie include self images of low future aspiration and the need for a strong male image of achievement to influence their maturing processes, including incentives to learn in school. Some students seen by these teachers have developed strong "nobody cares about me" attitudes while others, due to family associations that include no working males, have no self concept of success stemming from work, pay and promotion. The latter group sees no reason to keep up with the class.

How can these children be helped? According to Swain and Demarest, continuous, favorable out-of-school experiences are essential follow-up requirements for youth assigned to in-school special assistance programs. The teachers see Rotary as a possible source of local personal assistance programs for selected children. Many of the follow-up experiences that were suggested involve the simple acts of getting kids out of their home to do something. These something might be only a hike in the woods or a local bowling trip.

The message that came across the strongest from these teachers said that the children in their programs need a real commitment by a family that is willing to expose that child to a positive family experience. Teenagers can be just as important "brothers" as adults. The question is: will the real parents allow others to encroach upon their territory of responsibility?

Secondly, can organizations like Rotary help in matching kids in the school with programs with an "alter parent or brother" out of school. Both sides, educators and Rotarians, as a result of Tuesday's meeting, will explore the problem further. The teaching side proposed that they drop up specific "Big Brother" suggestions for consideration.

CHAMBER MEETING TO ADDRESS FINANCIAL SUPPORT TO ME. PUBLICITY BUREAU

The Greater Bethel Chamber of Commerce will meet at 7:30 p. m. on Wednesday, Dec. 6, at the home of Don Bennett in Mayville, to consider a varied agenda. The highest priority item will be that of requesting the towns of Bethel, Newry and Greenwood to appropriate a certain sum of money for supporting the Maine Publicity Bureau. Each of the three towns' businesses benefit from tourism and winter recreation; therefore, it is thought appropriate to ask for public financial assistance in the 1979 town meetings which would be allocated for out of state advertising by the Publicity Bureau. Maine has committed up to $400,000 in State funds to match amounts raised by the Publicity Bureau.

In addition to the $292 paid to the Bureau in 1978 by the local Chamber, another $200 has been requested as a pledge in 1978 for the years of 1978 and 1979.

Another equally important item is that of a "Bethel area" information booth for the summer of 1979. Bethel is on the list of Publicity Bureau sites for a new information center. However, Maine's Department of Transportation has responsibility for tourist information and outdoor advertising along Maine's highways. The local chamber, therefore needs to decide the most cost effective approach to take locally with respect to an information program.

Since the cut-off date for proposed articles for the 1979 town meeting warrant in Bethel is Dec. 15, the local chamber must decide prior to that date whether or not it is going to ask for public financial support of an information booth. Any support, if requested, would be for the cost of constructing the building itself. One alternative available for consideration is the donation of a building located on Broad Street.

The least expensive alternative to an information booth is to construct more unattended information centers similar to the one currently set up at The Gem Shop. If this option is chosen, the Chamber will then have to work out siting of such information bulletin boards with the State Highway Department, ideally locating them at roadside parks and picnic areas already maintained by the state in Gilead, Greenwood and Bethel.

HEALTH CARE TEAM TO PRACTICE IN BETHEL

Dr. William T. Whitney of Norway and Mrs. Kathie Tremblay R. N. of Bethel will soon be a part of the health care team to be practicing in the Bethel Area Health Care Center.

Mrs. Tremblay has just returned from the nurse practitioner program at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston and is being precepted by Dr. Whitney to gain additional experience. The nurse practitioner education prepares an experienced registered nurse to take on an extended role in health care in collaboration with a physician. The nurse practitioner sees patients with controlled chronic illness, acute minor illnesses and performs physical exams, health screening, prevention of disease and health education as part of a health care plan decided upon jointly by the physician, nurse practitioner and patient.

The goal of the joint physician-nurse practice is to offer unique services to the community which were previously unavailable. Utilizing both physician and nurse practitioner as a team, services can be offered to families and individuals with increased availability.

Mrs. Tremblay received her registered nurse's education from Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, and has graduated from Salem State College in Massachusetts with a Bachelor of Science in nursing. She has experience in operating rooms, intensive care, pediatrics, physician's office practice, community health, maternal-child health and health education. Since living in Bethel, Mrs. Tremblay has developed and taught prepared childbirth education classes in the community and worked part-time at Rumford Community Hospital in the Intensive Care Unit. Both she and Dr. Whitney have been involved in the effort toward development of the Bethel Area Health Center since its onset.

Dr. Whitney graduated from Harvard University and the University of Vermont Medical School. His internship was at Chapel Hill, N. C. His residencies, both medical and pediatric, were at Strong Memorial Hospital in Rochester, N. Y. Dr. Whitney's varied experience includes private practice in a health center in Exeter, N. H., and associate professorship at the University of Mississippi in Jackson. He was the director of pediatric outpatient services in Jackson, also.

Since Dr. Whitney has been in the Norway-Bethel area he has developed a pediatric practice in Norway, recently joined by Stephen Bauer, M. D. They are the school physicians for S. A. D. #44, Gould Academy and the Bethel Head Start Program. Dr. Whitney is also the attending physician at the local Child Health Conference in Bethel.

The exact date Dr. Whitney and Mrs. Tremblay's services will be available is soon to be announced.

The snow came Thanksgiving eve and left us with about five inches of snow. The temperatures dropped along with the snow and I believe I can correctly say we have had below zero readings every morning since. After the warm weather our bodies are not conditioned and therefore it seems to penetrate right through.

As I was preparing my Thanksgiving dinner I went back to the one on my 11th year. That year my older brother was born. Most babies were born in the home so my grandmother came to our house to be with the mother. As I was the oldest granddaughter I was to go over to grandma's to cook their dinner. My great-grandmother was there (she was not much help as she was living in the past), my grandfather and I can't remember whether there was one or two boarders. Then one of the country almost always cooked on a wood stove so if one didn't know how to keep the temperature regulated you were lost. Well, we did have a dinner, but the roast was burned and the potatoes were not rare, but raw on the inside. The potatoes were watery; but, as Grandma always had a cellar full of canned goods and pickles; and was of the old school when she had pie on the table three times a day, the rest of the dinner was O.K. My aunt Bertha came over the next day and helped me out.

Upton
—Mrs. Arline Bernier, Corres.— Winter weather arrived in the northeast. Some people are a little nervous with almost no salt in the shed and the big truck parked in Dixfield. So far, traffic has been moving.

Alex Lecomte fell and hurt
some ribs. Nice time for a card shower.

More of our summer birds have flown to their winter homes. Maybe the snow made them decide that shoveling and heat and water problems which accompany winter loomed uninviting.

Three deer came to Williamson's feeding ground the day after the season closed. They had not been seen there, or signs of them around the area for some time.

Fred and an anonymous companion went to Round Mountain Grange meeting in Albany Monday night. The return trip was tedious with washboard drifts, and frequent stops to clear the windshield from the driving snow.
They noted animal tracks across the road in several places.

Gilles Viens was the only local hunter who tagged a deer among the 10 tagged in Upton. Buster Williamson bagged one which he tagged elsewhere. Seven of the deer tagged were brought in during the last two days. All the deer were large size.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Aron entertained the senior Arons, Paul and Mrs. Daniel Stevens for Thanksgiving.

The Richard Lecomtes were guests of his parents on Thanksgiving Day.

The Berniers joined a large group of 28 at the Korhonen in Newry. Most special guest was Jerry Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Andre Bernier of Locke Mills, who was born Nov. 21.

Fred and Lady Bluejay went to West Peru Sunday to join about 60-70 of the Judkins family and friends for a Thanksgiving dinner at the Legion Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Bernier, Kelly and Vicki of North Waterford spent Saturday evening with his parents. The girls stayed over to join the family in Newry Sunday
as their parents worked, Sunday.

We were awakened by a CB emergency one night last week and learned of the Anson camp on Moldegewock road having burned. The warden was on vacation, so we called on Allen Murphy of Seven Islands Land Management and he took care of the matter. It was thought that no one was in the camp at the time.

itors were: Pearl Crossland, Mexico; Joanne Thier, Chicago, Ill.;

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bryant ate Thanksgiving dinner with Olivia Davis Thursday.

Winter weather has arrived. It was 2° below on the back north-west corner of my house Wednesday morning, Nov. 22, at 5:30 a.m. and that is cold.

The deer season is about ended. The deer kill has been very light in this area and other towns north of here have not had too good luck stalking them. I believe the coy dogs have driven them from this area as I heard there were four caught on Curtis Hill and four others all full grown in Davis Mountain on Route 26 were killed. That's eight in South Woodstock. No knowing how many more are lurking here in the woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Guyson Davis spent Thanksgiving Day with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Tibbitts, Neil and Jackie, Norway.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Ethel M. Barnett
Nov. 30, 1977

This time a year ago
God came and took you by the hand
And said, please walk with me through the Pearly Gates into the promised land
You've served your purpose here
on earth

You shall suffer there no more Come, where the sun always shines and the moon beams play on the floor
God knows how I miss you no one can take a Mother's place

It doesn't matter what the religion
what color or what the race
I couldn't wish you here to suffer nor could I wish your life away
But I'd give anything, Mother, dear for you to be well and here today

Memories keep creeping back finding their way to my heart
And no matter how hard I try
I can't hold back the tears,
they start

I remember the love you had your heart was strong and golden
And for allowing me to be your daughter
I will always beholden
This in memory was written to my Mother
whose memory I'll always keep I'll never forget you Mother dear my love for you is held in my heart deep,
daughter

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

The freeze-up of the pond has arrived and it's a prelude to winter. There is filigreed fingering of ice along the shoreline and where I kept my boat during the summer. Some mornings ice forms across the pond but, by mid-morning it shatters into thin shards from the wind and waves.

It was such a morning on Nov. 19 but the afternoon was beautiful. So Ruth and I left for an afternoon. We drove well up the Norway side of Patch Mountain, then left the car, to hike over the part of the mountain road that is so steep that it "turns under." We hoped to find a trail that would take us to the Mountain point ledge. We found the trail all right and followed it back for some distance.

Towering white pines, spruces, firs, and hard woods graced the trail sides. They added a tangy, pungent odor to the fresh air and sighed in the breeze. The woodland gave the impression that the land belonged to the trees far more than to any person. The balsams and pines acted like giant sticks of incense for they gave off redolence which filled the air all about.

And the white birches, what beautiful trees they were, graceful with lines of beauty against the blue.

The only bird that I saw was a downy woodpecker which looked at me as if to say, "Is this MY land or YOUR land?" I think he decided it was his for he kept busily at work.

The minutes circled by uncounted, while we drifted on farther into the forest, observing the countless things of interest. We there history repeats itself on every day of summer, autumn, winter, or spring. If you walk and stop at familiar places; you note how in many ways little events in the past now become the events of the present.

We began to notice the sun slanting between the tree trunks. Ruth checked her compass. The light gave a glorious golden glow to the leaves on the ground. The tree trunk holes were dark bars which threw back shadows onto the burnished-copper earth, the moss, and dead tree-logs.

It was a study in light and shadow. I was reminded of a stained glass window having black bars through which the sun beyond, lit the background.

We now realized that we had a mile to go to get back to the road and not time enough to make the ledges and get to the car before sunset. So we turned back. It was what we did or we would have been unable to follow the trail and would have had to struggle through an unmarked way.

The air had begun to cool and the sun was near the mountain tops when we again came to the "turned-under" hill.

We passed the field of tamaracks which are no longer attractive.

The woods were becoming ghostly dim for forests darkened quickly at this time of year.

Far off, practically on the rim of the sky, a few thin skeins of clouds turned rosy. In a short time the world would be dark for night was crossing the sky and once again the stars would break out in spangles.

We had covered some over five miles by the time we reached the car. We had learned something new about something old, as we saw it revealed today. On previous hikes the foliage had hidden it from us.

Mr. and Mrs. David Holt, Princeton, spent the holidays with their parents here and at Locke Mills.

Thanksgiving dinner guests of Leonas and Fay Holt were: Robert, Jeri, and Danny Holt, from Windsor; Ann Holt, Bethel; David and Sharon Holt, Princeton; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Morgan and Bernard Morgan, Town.

On Thanksgiving Day I had 18 smiling pansies; braving the cold from the pansy bed. The next morning they were covered with snow. Now they'll sleep until spring.

Most of the hunters have left their camps and returned to their homes.

From the Hayes Homestead; they have been busy. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hayes and family, Hyde Park, N. Y., came on Wednesday and stayed until Sunday. They and Doris and Rolly went out for Thanksgiving dinner. Saturday their visitors were: Mr. and Mrs.

Duane Hayes and family, West Paris; Ardell Hayes, Auburn; Chester Hazelton, West Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Libby, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Waterhouse, Westbrook. Some of them were there for dinner and some for supper. One day the last of the week Glenn Hayes and a friend, Mr. Belmont and son were there for a day of hunting. Glen lives in Gray and the Belmonts in Greenville. On Tuesday, Rolly and Doris went to Sunday River to visit Eva Yates.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Leeper and son of Rhode Island and New York were at their camp for the holidays and the week end.

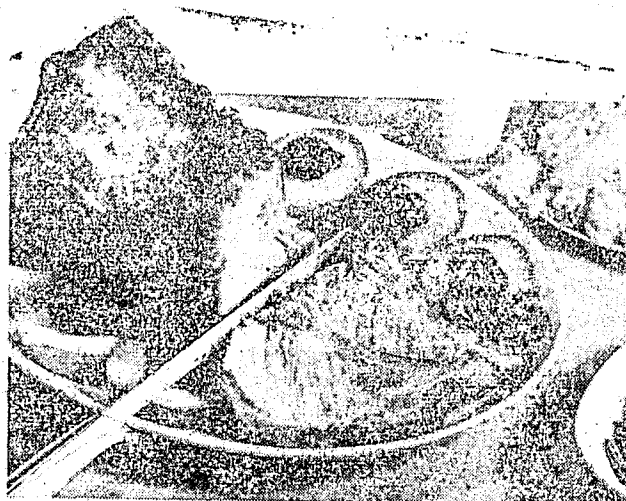

Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Tamminen had Thanksgiving in Norway.

WALTER LORD CELEBRATES 96th BIRTHDAY

On Nov. 14, Walter Lord of Waterford, celebrated his 96th birthday at the Norway nursing home, with a four piece musical group, part of which used to play at Lakeland Pavilion in Windham. Mr. Lord danced to this band, Don Doane, and his music for many years.

Mr. Lord's daughters, Kay and Jo, got together and came up with the idea that Dad and his friends at the nursing home would enjoy an afternoon of songs and music and Walter showed them that even at 96 years, he could still trip the light fantastic, and do a polka. Mr. and Mrs. Allen Laughlin, James Conley and Phillip Small, all of Portland, furnished the music. Allen served as master of ceremonies, his wife Alice as songstress, James on accordion, and Phillip on the organ. Mr. Lord's son, Stanley, of Bethel, joined Mrs. Laughlin in several favorite songs for Dad. Mr. Laughlin told several cute stories, and introduced some of the guests.

After the entertainment, which was greatly appreciated, three birthday cakes, made by Walter's daughters, Kay and Jo, and daughter-in-law, Christie Lord, were presented. Jo cut the cakes and the nurses and orderlies served it with punch to all the guests and patients.

Those of Mr. Lord's family attending were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pike, South Bridgton; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lord, Jo Sanderson and Clyde Stanton, Jr., of North Waterford; Kay O'Leary, South Paris; Stanley Lord, Bethel, and Bonnie Farris, Oxford. It was a wonderful day, one Mr. Lord will remember for a long time.

More goes on in Bethel than people realize," remarked Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, one of the participants. "And the people of the area could support more activities if they didn't all take place on the same few week ends." Several members expressed concern for the development of activities for participation as well as those activities they can simply attend. In general, the informal meeting pointed out the need for promotion and coordination of existing activities, the incorporation of artistic events with over events and into the general community calendar, the utilization of artistic resources on both the state and local level, increased support of those artistic efforts which are now poorly supported, the development of those areas that are now dormant in the area, and the need for more community input into the activities and plans of the newly formed Council.

"Excitement and enthusiasm are not enough to get the job done," remarked Carol Pike, drama teacher at Gould, "we need more people who are concerned enough to participate in this Council." No officers or Board members have been chosen yet. All community people concerned with the development of "the Arts" in any form, are urged to attend the next meeting Sunday evening, 7:30, at the Moses Mason House. If you are interested, or need more information, please call Marie Wilson at 824-2136.
